Basic Italian Grammar

All the basics, clearly explained

Introduction

Italian is considered one of the easiest languages to learn for English speakers. We share the same writing system; both languages include plenty of words with Latin roots; the basic sentence structure is the same; Italian is spoken the way that it is written.

What's the catch then? While English has very little inflection, Italian is a heavily inflected language, which basically means that we change word endings to modify their meaning. Nouns, pronouns, adjectives, and articles can be masculine, feminine, singular or plural, and verbs are conjugated according to mood, tense, person, and number. Italian grammar can be quite complicated!

This free handbook is an introduction to the main concepts and a quick reference guide. You will find the basic principles, simple explanations on how to use the main parts of speech, and regular verb conjugation in the tenses needed for everyday communication, with examples from current, authentic conversational Italian.

Buono studio!

Inflection - Flessione

Inflection is the modification of a word according to various grammatical categories, for example number, gender, mood, and tense. In Italian the inflection of verbs is called coniugazione (conjugation), but nouns, adjectives, articles, and other parts of speech can be inflected, too.

Latin was highly inflected, with seven cases, five declensions, four conjugations, and three genders. Italian and other Romance languages are comparatively simpler, with only two genders (masculine and feminine) and no grammatical cases. Still, most Italian words can be inflected, usually by changing their ending, and only a minority of words are invariable.

Let's see some examples of inflection.

Nouns can be masculine or feminine, singular or plural based on their ending:

bambino (masculine singular) bambina (feminine singular) bambini (masculine plural)
bambine (feminine plural)

Articles and adjectives agree with the noun they refer to, so they also have masculine, feminine, singular and plural forms:

i bambini piccoli (masculine plural)
la bambina alta (feminine singular)

Pronouns replace nouns, so they also have gender and number, like the English she/her, they/them, etc. We introduce pronouns on page 14.

Verbs have various moods & tenses, persons and numbers. We introduce all seven moods and the most common tenses on pages 16.

Basic Sentence Structure

Did you know that very different languages like English, Italian, Russian, Hebrew, Thai, and Chinese share the same basic sentence structure? They are all SVO languages, which means that sentences are usually made up by the sequence:

SUBJECT - VERB - OBJECT

In Italian, thanks to conjugation, the verb already contains a lot of information about the subject. Therefore the subject is often dropped, and our sentence structure can become even simpler:

VERB - OBJECT

subject: who or what is doing the action verb: the action object: who or what the action is being done to

Examples of basic sentences with SVO structure:

Lucia guarda la TV. - Lucia watches TV.

Guardare (to watch) is a transitive verb, and TV is a direct object.

Marco parla con Gianni. - Marco talks with Gianni.

Parlare (to talk) is intransitive in this sentence, and con Gianni is an indirect object.

Anna dà il libro a Luca. - Anna gives Luca the book.

Here dare (to give) has both a direct object (il libro) and an indirect object (a Luca).

Negative sentences have the same structure, we just add NON (not) before the verb:

Lucia non guarda la TV. - Lucia doesn't watch TV.

Interrogative sentences (questions) often retain the same structure, too:

Lucia guarda la TV? - Does Lucia watch TV?

1.1 Gender of nouns

AMICO E AMICA

Italian nouns can be masculine or feminine.

There is no neuter, no it — even ideas and inanimate objects are either masculine or feminine. Everything has a grammatical gender.

How can I figure out the gender of a noun in Italian?

When nouns refer to people or animals, their grammatical gender corresponds to natural gender. It is therefore quite difficult to avoid specifying someone's gender in Italian.

MASCHILE

IL CUOCO
IL BAMBINO
IL POLIZIOTTO
IL GATTO

FEMMINILE

LA CUOCA
LA BAMBINA
LA POLIZIOTTA
LA GATTA

There are some general rules that we can keep in mind to figure out the gender of a word when we don't have a dictionary at hand:

- Nouns ending in -O are usually masculine and form the plural with -I.
- Nouns ending in -A are usually feminine and form the plural with -E.
- Nouns ending in -E can be masculine or feminine and form the plural with -I.

NOMI MASCHILI

IL LETTO
IL FORNO
IL DIVANO
IL GIORNALE

NOMI FEMMINILI

LA FINESTRA
LA LAMPADA
LA TENDA
LA CHIAVE

I LETTI
I FORNI
I DIVANI
I GIORNALI

LE FINESTRE
LE LAMPADE
LE TENDE
LE CHIAVI

1.1 Gender of nouns

ATTORE E ATTRICE

Some nouns are both masculine and feminine. The gender can be deduced from the context and/or the article (if any).

MASCHILE

IL COLLEGA
IL CANTANTE
IL PIANISTA
L'ARTISTA

FEMMINILE

LA COLLEGA
LA CANTANTE
LA PIANISTA
L'ARTISTA

Some masculine nouns ending in -E form the feminine with -ESSA.

Masculine nouns ending in -TORE form the feminine with -TRICE.

MASCHILE

LO STUDENTE
IL POETA
IL DOTTORE
IL CONTE
L'ATTORE
IL TRADUTTORE
LO SCRITTORE
IL PITTORE
IL DIRETTORE

FEMMINILE

LA STUDENTESSA
LA POETESSA
LA DOTTORESSA
LA CONTESSA
L'ATTRICE
LA TRADUTTRICE
LA SCRITTRICE
LA PITTRICE
LA DIRETTRICE

Today there is a heated debate on the feminine form of nouns that refer to jobs, titles, and positions in what were once male-dominated fields.

Avvocata is becoming increasingly common instead of avvocatessa; ministra and sindaca are often used for a female minister and a female mayor.

The choice is often based on personal preference.

1.2 Plural of nouns

"CASE, LIBRI, AUTO, VIAGGI, FOGLI DI GIORNALE..."

Tiziano Ferro, Non me lo so spiegare

Masculine nouns ending in -O or -A and all nouns ending in -E form the plural with -I:

IL LIBRO	→	I LIBRI
IL POETA	→	I POETI
LA NOTTE	→	LE NOTTI

Feminine nouns ending in -A form the plural with -E:

LA CASA	→	LE CASE
---------	---	---------

I negozi di questa città sono fantastici!
The shops of this city are great!

Le città italiane sono spesso affascinanti.
Italian cities are often fascinating.

Nouns ending in -IO drop the O in the plural:

IL NEGOZIO I NEGOZI

But if the I in -IO is stressed, then an -I is added in the plural form:

LO ZIO GLI ZII

Remember! Foreign nouns, nouns stressed on the final vowel, and abbreviations do not change in the plural — they are invariable:

IL BAR	I BAR
LO SPORT	GLI SPORT
IL REFERENDUM	I REFERENDUM
LA CITTÀ	LE CITTÀ
LA VIRTÙ	LE VIRTÙ
LA FOTO	LE FOTO
LA BICI	LE BICI

2.1 Indefinite articles

The indefinite articles a, an have four forms in Italian.

UNO, UN

The masculine forms are UN and UNO.

UNO is used before singular nouns beginning with z, y, s + consonant, gn, or ps:

UNO SPETTACOLO

UNO YOGURT

UNO ZAINO

UN is used before singular nouns beginning with other consonants or with a vowel:

UN AMICO

UN ANIMALE

UN GELATO

UN TAVOLO

UN ORSO

UNA, UN'

The feminine forms are:

UNA, used before singular nouns beginning with a consonant:

UNA STANZA

UNA MELA

UN', used before singular nouns beginning with a vowel:

UN'AMICA

UN'AUTOMOBILE

A common mistake is using UN' before masculine nouns:

UN'AMICO  WRONG

UN AMICO  CORRECT

2.2 Definite articles

L'articolo determinativo

The definite article corresponds to the English the, and it's used to refer to something definite that the speaker knows. It agrees in gender and number with the noun.

- Before signore, signora and titles:

La signora Verdi, il dottor Bianchi

- With languages:

Studio l'italiano.

(but "Studio italiano" is also correct)

- With names of countries (except when introduced by the preposition IN):

La Francia è un bellissimo paese.

Vado spesso in Italia. (no article here!)

- With the times & dates:

Sono le undici. È il 15 giugno.

- When expressing possession:

La tua casa è molto grande.

- With abstract nouns or general statements:

La vita è bella.

I gatti sono adorabili.

I sogni sono desideri.

MASCULINE	SINGULAR	PLURAL
begins with a consonant*	IL	I begins with a vowel	L'	GLI
* begins with S+consonant, GN, PN, PS, X, Y, Z	LO	GLI

FEMININE	SINGULAR	PLURAL
begins with a consonant	LA	LE begins with a vowel	L'	LE

3.1 Adjectives

Gli aggettivi

Adjectives are words that provide additional information about other parts of the speech, usually nouns. There are different types of adjectives: descriptive, demonstrative, possessive, indefinite, interrogative.

Adjectives generally follow the noun they modify, and they agree in gender and number with it:

Un teatro famoso

Una città moderna

Due gatti neri.

The vast majority of masculine adjectives ends in -O, whereas feminine adjectives usually end in -A.

Adjectives ending in -E have the same form for both masculine and feminine:

Una festa interessante

Un romanzo interessante

Plural of adjectives

Adjectives ending in -O form the plural with -I:

il teatro famoso → i teatri famosi

Adjectives ending in -A form the plural with -E:

la casa nuova → le case nuove

Adjectives ending in -E always form the plural with -I, regardless of gender:

le ragazze sorridenti → i ragazzi sorridenti

Their plural forms generally follow the spelling rules that apply to nouns:

una via larga → due vie larghe

Finally, there is a group of invariable adjectives, mainly colours, which never change:

un muro rosa

una bicicletta rosa

il pollo arrosto

i polli arrosto

3.2 Comparatives & superlatives

Comparatives

- The comparative of majority is formed as follows:

più + adjective + di

Il mio cane è più vecchio del tuo.

My dog is older than yours.

- The comparative of minority is formed as follows:

meno + adjective + di

La sua famiglia è meno ricca della tua.

His family is less rich than yours.

- The comparative of equality is formed as follows:

adjective + quanto/come

La sua famiglia è ricca quanto la tua.

La sua famiglia è ricca come la tua.

His/her family is as rich as yours.

Superlatives

- Relative superlatives are easy to form:

definite article + più + adjective

Marco è il più intelligente del gruppo.

Marco is the most intelligent in the group.

Questa città è la più grande d'Italia.

This city is the largest in Italy.

- Absolute superlative:

The absolute superlative is used to state that someone (or something) has a quality to the highest degree, without any term of comparison.

It is formed by adding the suffix -ISSIMO to the adjective:

Venezia è una città bellissima.

Venice is a wonderful city.

3.3 Possessive adjectives

Gli aggettivi possessivi

MASCULINE SINGULAR	FEMININE SINGULAR
IL MIO	LA MIA
IL TUO	LA TUA
IL SUO	LA SUA
IL NOSTRO	LA NOSTRA
IL VOSTRO	LA VOSTRA
IL LORO	LE LORO

MASCULINE PLURAL	FEMININE PLURAL
I MIEI	LE MIE
I TUOI	LE TUE
I SUOI	LE SUE
I NOSTRI	LE NOSTRE
I VOSTRI	LE VOSTRE
I LORO	LE LORO

- The definite article is placed before the possessive adjective:
il mio cane - my dog
le tue sorelle - your sisters
- Possessive adjectives agree with the noun they refer to, NOT with the owner:
Il libro di Sofia → Il suo libro
La casa di Marco → La sua casa

- Suo/a is the courtesy form:

Scusi, questa è la Sua borsa?

Ecco il Suo caffè.

The article is usually omitted before singular kinship nouns: mio fratello, mia madre, tuo padre, sua zia, suo nonno, nostro zio, vostra nonna. However, we can say la mia mamma, il tuo papà, il suo babbo.

We use the article if the kinship noun is modified or followed by an adjective: il mio fratellino, il tuo nonno materno, and with plural kinship nouns and the possessive adjective loro: i tuoi zii, i nostri genitori, il loro nonno.

4 Adverbs

Adverbs add to the meaning of verbs, adjectives or other adverbs. There are several types of adverbs:

- Adverbs of manner:

lentamente, allegramente, bene, male, forte, piano.

- Adverbs of time:

ora, adesso, ancora, ieri, oggi, domani, prima, poi, presto, subito, tardi, sempre, mai.

- Adverbs of quantity:

molto, poco, meno, troppo, più, tanto, assai, niente, nulla.

- Adverbs of place:

qui, qua, sopra, sotto, vicino, lontano, prima, dopo, davanti, dietro.

Together with conjunctions and prepositions, adverbs are one of the few invariable parts of speech in Italian.

We can however form superlatives: tantissimo, moltissimo, lontanissimo, spessissimo, tardissimo...

Additionally, some adverbs can be modified by suffixes: benone, benino, pianino, pochino, malaccio...

- Adverbs of manner are formed by adding the suffix -MENTE to the feminine form of the adjective:

libero → libera → liberamente

caldo → calda → caldamente

giusto → giusta → giustamente

duro → dura → duramente

- A few end in -ONI:

cavalcioni (piggyback), carponi (on all fours), a tentoni (groping around)

- Adjectives ending in -LE/-LO, -RE/-RO drop the final -E before -MENTE:

uguale → ugualmente

nobile → nobilmente

regolare → regolarmente

benevolo → benevolmente

leggero → leggermente

5.1 Subject pronouns

I pronomi soggetto

SINGULAR	PLURAL
IO	NOI
TU	VOI
LUI, LEI	LORO

Subject pronouns are used to replace the subject of a verb:

Lei suona il piano
(She plays the piano)
Lei is the pronoun.

The subject pronouns egli (he), ella (she), esso/a (animal/inanimate object), and essi/e (they) are commonly replaced by the pronouns listed above. This usage is already found in Alessandro Manzoni (early 19th century).

Important!

- In Italian, subject pronouns are usually dropped to avoid repetition. Thanks to conjugation, the ending of the verb already indicates the person that performs the action.
- When subject pronouns are expressed, they are usually added for emphasis or contrast:

Lui è italiano, lei invece è francese.

Io ho capito, tu no!

Noi andiamo, voi restate lì!

- Lei with a capital L is the courtesy form, which corresponds to the third person singular:

Scusi, Lei è il nuovo professore?

Venga anche Lei, signor Rossi!

Lei non sa chi sono io!

5.2 Object pronouns

Direct object pronouns

Direct object pronouns replace the object, and answer the questions What? or Whom? They can be stressed or unstressed.

Unstressed pronouns are placed before the verb:

Mi porti a casa? Will you take me home?

SINGULAR	PLURAL
MI	CI
TI	VI
LO, LA	LI, LE

Stressed pronouns are placed after the verb:

Ha indicato me. He pointed to me.

SINGULAR	PLURAL
ME	NOI
TE	VOI
LUI, LEI	LORO

Indirect object pronouns

In Italian some verbs need indirect object pronouns. They answer the questions To whom? or For whom? They can be unstressed or stressed.

Unstressed pronouns go before the verb:

Mi hanno telefonato. They called me.

SINGULAR	PLURAL
MI	CI
TI	VI
GLI, LE	GLI

Stressed pronouns are placed after the verb and need a preposition:

Hanno telefonato a me. They called me.

SINGULAR	PLURAL
A ME	A NOI
A TE	A VOI
A LUI, A LEI	A LORO

6 Verbs

Verb Moods

Verb moods are classifications that specify how the action takes place. They are divided into two groups:

1. Definite moods, which indicate person, number, and tense:

indicativo (indicative) congiuntivo (subjunctive) condizionale (conditional) imperativo (imperative)

2. Indefinite moods, which indicate only tense:

infinito (infinitive)

gerundio (gerund)

participio (participle)

Tenses can be simple, i.e. formed by a single word, or compound, i.e. formed by the auxiliary verb essere (to be) or avere (to have) + past participle.

Modo indicativo

The indicative mood is used to state a fact that is believed to be true by the speaker.

The indicative mood indicates the three moments when a fact can take place or a statement is made:

Anteriority — in the past:

imperfetto (imperfect) passato remoto (past absolute or past simple) passato prossimo (present perfect) trapassato prossimo (past perfect)

trapassato remoto (preterite perfect tense)

Contemporaneity — right now:

presente (present)

Posteriority — in the future:

futuro semplice (future)

futuro anteriore (future perfect)

6.1.1 Presente indicativo

Presente

The presente indicativo is used in everyday Italian to describe actions or states that happen regularly or are happening at the moment of speaking.

 It is also commonly used to talk about future actions; see page 32.

Italian verbs are grouped into three conjugations according to their infinitive ending:

The first conjugation ends in -are
PARLARE, AMARE, CANTARE

The second conjugation ends in -ere
CORRERE, CREDERE, PRENDERE

The third conjugation ends in -ire
DORMIRE, PARTIRE, FINIRE

To conjugate a verb, drop the infinitive ending and add the appropriate ending according to mood, tense, person, and number.

First conjugation - CANTARE (to sing)

IO	CANTO
TU	CANTI
LUI/LEI	CANTA
NOI	CANTIAMO
VOI	CANTATE
LORO	CANTANO

Second conjugation - PRENDERE (to take)

IO	PRENDO
TU	PRENDI
LUI/LEI	PRENDE
NOI	PRENDIAMO
VOI	PRENDETE
LORO	PRENDONO

6.1.1 Presente indicativo

The third conjugation is divided into two groups; each group has a different set of endings, so you need to know the group to which the verb belongs.

The vast majority of verbs of the third conjugation, about 500, belong to Group 2. These verbs insert the interfix -ISC before all endings, except in the persons NOI and VOI. See the conjugation of finire on the right.

Third conjugation, Group 2 - FINIRE (to finish)

IO	FINISCO
TU	FINISCI
LUI/LEI	FINISCE
NOI	FINIAMO
VOI	FINITE
LORO	FINISCONO

Third conjugation, Group 1 - PARTIRE (to leave)

IO	PARTO
TU	PARTI
LUI/LEI	PARTE
NOI	PARTIAMO
VOI	PARTITE
LORO	PARTONO

Notice how the endings repeat themselves in the three conjugations. The ending is always -O for the first person singular, -I for the second person singular, and -IAMO for the first person plural.

Check the verb that you need to conjugate in the dictionary to see if it belongs to the first, second, or third conjugation. Any irregular form will be listed in the dictionary.

6.1.2 Imperfetto indicativo

Imperfetto

The imperfetto (imperfect tense) is, along with the passato prossimo, one of the most commonly used verb tenses in Italian, so it is important to understand how it works. Actually, English speakers often tend to overuse it. It is used:

- To say that something continued over a period of time in the past. It can correspond to the English past continuous:

Nel 1593 Caravaggio viveva a Roma.

In 1593 Caravaggio was living in Rome.

- To talk about repeated actions or states in the past, similar to the English form to be used to:

Da ragazzo, andavo a ballare tutte le sere.

As a teenager, I would go dance every night.

- To express an intention, a wish:

Una volta volevo fare l'astronauta.

I used to want to be an astronaut.

1st conjugation

3rd conjugation

SENTIRE

IO	CREDUTO
TU	CREDUTI
LUI/LEI	CREDUTA
NOI	CREDUTAMO
VOI	CREDUTATE
LORO	CREDUTANO

6.1.3 Passato prossimo

Passato prossimo

The passato prossimo (perfect tense) is the past tense most commonly used in everyday spoken Italian. It is formed using the present tense of avere or essere (auxiliary verbs) plus the past participle of the main verb: io ho lavorato molto.

- The passato prossimo is used to describe what you have done at some time in the past, what you have done so far, and, unlike in English, it is also used to say what happened at a specific time in the past. It describes a completed action in the past, whereas the imperfetto describes an action in progress in the past, or a habit in the past.
- It translates both the English present perfect and the past simple. Especially in northern Italy, it is often used to replace the passato remoto and to describe when exactly something happened:

Ho visitato i Musei Vaticani due anni fa.

I visited the Vatican Museums two years ago.

Common irregular past participles

accendere	acceso	switched on
aprire	aperto	opened
bere	bevuto	drunk chiedere	chiesto	asked
correre	corso	run
dire	detto	said/told
dividere	diviso	divided
essere	stato	been
fare	fatto	done
leggere	letto	read
morire	morto	dead
nascere	nato	born
perdere	perso	lost
piangere	pianto	cried prendere	preso	taken
rompere	rotto	broken
scegliere	scelto	chosen scrivere	scritto	written
vedere	visto	seen

6.1.3 Passato prossimo

Avere o essere?

Several of the most common verbs form the passato prossimo with the auxiliary ESSERE:

- Stative verbs or verbs indicating a change:
essere (to be), nascere (to be born), stare (to stay), morire (to die):

Sono nato il 3 dicembre.

I was born on 3 December.

È stata molto male.

She has been very sick.

- Reflexive verbs:

Mi solo fatto male.

I hurt myself.

Si solo lasciati.

They split up.

Ti sei addormentato?

Have you fallen asleep?

- Many verbs of movement, such as andare (to go), arrivare (to arrive), entrare (to enter), cadere (to fall), tornare (to return), uscire (to go out), venire (to come), partire (to leave). The list is by no means exhaustive.

- Verbs that describe the weather can take both essere and avere:

Ha nevicato tutta notte OR

È nevicato tutta notte.

It snowed all night.

With the verbs cominciare, iniziare and finire, use:

- avere if the subject is a person or animal:
Il gatto ha finito il latte. The cat finished the milk.
- essere if the subject is inanimate:
Il latte è finito. The milk is finished.

! ATTENZIONE

Camminare, passeggiare, and viaggiare use avere:
Ho camminato molto.
I walked a lot.

6.1.4 Futuro semplice

Futuro semplice

The futuro semplice indicates an action that will take place in the future.

Tra due mesi andrò a Parigi.

In two months I'm going to Paris.

The futuro semplice is also used:

- To express a doubt:

Chi sarà quella ragazza? Forse la sorella di Paolo? Who can that girl be? Maybe Paolo's sister?

- To express an approximation:

Questa valigia peserà circa 8 chili.

This suitcase weighs about 8 kilos.

- In the first conditional (periodo ipotetico di primo tipo):

Se non studi, non passerai l'esame!

If you don't study, you won't pass the exam!

How to form the futuro semplice:

	1st conjugation	2nd conjugation
IO	PARLERÒ	CREDERÒ
TU	PARLERAI	CREDERAI
LUI/LEI	PARLERÀ	CREDERÀ
NOI	PARLEREMO	CREDEREMO
VOI	PARLERETE	CREDERETE
LORO	PARLERANNO	CREDERANNO

The first and second conjugation have the same endings.

	3rd conjugation
IO	SENTIRÒ
TU	SENTIRAI
LUI/LEI	SENTIRÀ
NOI	SENTIREMO
VOI	SENTIRETE
LORO	SENTIRANNO

In informal spoken Italian, the present indicative often replaces the future:

Il mese prossimo vado al mare.

*I'll go to the sea
next month.*

6.2 Congiuntivo

The subjunctive mood is used to express uncertainty, doubt, desire.

Modo congiuntivo

The subjunctive usually connects two clauses, a main clause and a subordinate one: in Italian congiungere means to connect, to join.

It is mainly used in subordinate clauses that depend on verbs or expressions which:

- Indicate feelings (avere paura, dispiacere, essere felice, essere contento, etc.):

Sono contenta che tu capisca.

- Express opinions (credere, sperare, pensare, ritenere, etc.):

Spero che il treno sia in orario.

- Express doubt (dubitare, immaginare, etc.):

Non so dove sia.

- Express will (volere, desiderare, ordinare, etc.):

Voglio che tu venga qui!

Subjunctive mood, first conjugation

CHE VOI	SENTISTE	AVESTE SENTITO
CHE LORO	SENTISSERO	AVESSERO SENTITO

6.3 Condizionale

The conditional mood is used to talk about things that would happen or would be true under certain conditions.

Modo condizionale

The conditional mood has two tenses:

- The present conditional (condizionale presente o semplice) is used to describe an event that could happen in the present on condition that another event occurs:

Se avessi tempo, leggerei di più.
If I had time, I would read more.

- The past conditional (condizionale passato o composto) is used to describe an event that would have happened in the past if another event had happened:

Se me lo avessi detto, ti avrei aiutato.
If you had told me, I would have helped you.

Use the conditional:

- To express a wish:

Vorrei mangiare un gelato.
I would like to eat an ice cream.

- To make a polite request:

Mi presteresti la tua macchina?
May I borrow your car?

- To give advice:

Dovresti dormire di più.
You should get more sleep.

- To make assumptions:

Il negozio dovrebbe essere aperto.
The shop should be open.

- To express uncertainty:

"Come andrà a finire?" "Non saprei!"
"How will it end?" "I don't know!"

- To express a future action in a past context:

Pensavo che sarei tornata prima.
I thought I would be back sooner.

6.3 Condizionale

The conditional is also used in conditional sentences where the condition is introduced by the subjunctive:

Se fosse oro vero, lo comprerei subito.

If it were real gold, I would buy it immediately.

Se avessi studiato, avresti passato l'esame.

If you had studied, you would have passed the exam.

Conditional mood, first conjugation

1

	PRESENTE	PASSATO
IO	AMEREI	AVREI AMATO
TU	AMERESTI	AVRESTI AMATO
LUI/LEI	AMEREBBE	AVREBBE AMATO
NOI	AMEREMMO	AVREMBO AMATO
VOI	AMERESTE	AVRESTE AMATO
LORO	AMEREBBERO	AVREBBERO AMATO

Conditional mood, second conjugation

2

	PRESENTE	PASSATO
IO	CREDEREI	AVREI CREDUTO
TU	CREDERESTI	AVRESTI CREDUTO
LUI/LEI	CREDEREBBE	AVREBBE CREDUTO
NOI	CREDEREMMO	AVREMBO CREDUTO
VOI	CREDERESTE	AVRESTE CREDUTO
LORO	CREDEREBBERO	AVREBBERO CREDUTO

Conditional mood, third conjugation

3

	PRESENTE	PASSATO
IO	SENTIREI	AVREI SENTITO
TU	SENTIRESTI	AVRESTI SENTITO
LUI/LEI	SENTIREBBE	AVREBBE SENTITO
NOI	SENTIREMMO	AVREMBO SENTITO
VOI	SENTIRESTE	AVRESTE SENTITO
LORO	SENTIREBBERO	AVREBBERO SENTITO

6.4 Imperativo

The imperative is used to give orders and offer advice or suggestions.

Modo imperativo

The imperative is used in the second person singular and plural (tu, voi) and in the courtesy form (Lei).

A few practical examples:

Se ti piace il riso, prova il risotto ai funghi!
If you like rice, try mushroom risotto!

Forza ragazzi, parlate in italiano!
Come on guys, speak Italian!

Paolo, non tornare più!
Paolo, don't come back!

Prendi quel libro dallo scaffale, per favore!
Get that book from the shelf, please!

Signora, vada pure avanti.
Go on, ma'am.

How to form it:

Imperative of the three regular conjugations:

person	PARLARE	CORRERE	PARTIRE
tu	Parla!	Corri!	Parti!
Lei*	Parli!	Corra!	Parta!
voi	Parlate!	Correte!	Partite!

Common verbs with irregular or shortened forms:

person	ANDARE	AVERE	DARE
tu	Va' / vai!	Abbi!	Da' / dai!
Lei*	Vada!	Abbia!	Dia!
voi	Andate!	Abbiate!	Date!

* For the courtesy form, the imperative is formed using the present subjunctive, third person singular.

6.5 Infinito

The infinite expresses an action with no person and number.

Modo infinito

The infinitive has only the present and past tenses. The past infinitive is formed with the infinitive of the auxiliary and the past participle of the verb:

present: mangiare, ridere, dormire, essere, avere past: avere mangiato, avere riso, avere dormito, essere stato, avere avuto

On signs, in advertisements, recipes and instructions for use, the infinitive is commonly used instead of the imperative:

Vietato fumare. No smoking.

Aggiungere farina e zucchero. Add flour and sugar.

Stringere le viti. Tighten the screws.

VIETATO ENTRARE

The infinitive is used in both main and dependent clauses. Generally, the present infinitive indicates that the action of the dependent clause happens at the same time or after the action of the main clause:

Credo (now) di essere onesto (now)

The past infinitive indicates something that happened before the action of the main clause:

Credo (now) di essere stato onesto (in the past)

Frequently used structures:

In Italian prepositions are usually followed by the infinitive, including when they are followed by the -ing form in English:

Ho smesso di correre. I stopped running.

Stavo per ridere. I was about to laugh.

Mi ha insegnato a cantare. He taught me to sing.

Comincia a piovere. It's starting to rain.

6.6 Gerundio

parlare → parlando credere → credendo
seguire → seguedo

Modo gerundio

The gerund is formed with the suffixes -ando (first conjugation) and -endo (second and third).

It has two tenses, present (parlando) for contemporaneity, and past (avendo parlato), which expresses something that happened before the action of the main verb.

- The gerund can indicate the reason for something:

Non avendo avuto tempo, ho mangiato un panino. Since I didn't have time, I ate a sandwich.

- It can indicate when something happens:

Parlano sempre al telefono guidando. They always talk on the phone while driving.

- It can replace the 'if clause' in conditional sentences when the subject is the same:
Studiando molto passeresti l'esame.
By studying a lot you would pass the exam.
- It is used with the presente indicativo of stare to form the present continuous:
Sto facendo un esempio. I am giving an example.
Stiamo arrivando. We are coming.
- It is used with the imperfetto indicativo of stare to form the past continuous:
Stavamo scherzando. We were kidding.

Pronouns are usually attached to the end of the present gerund:

Chiamandolo lo sveglieresti.

By calling him you would wake him up.

or to the auxiliary of the past gerund:

Avendole lette, bruciò le lettere.

Having read them, he burnt the letters.

Modo participio

parlare → parlante → parlato

credere → credente → creduto seguire → seguinte → seguito

The participle has two tenses: present and past.

The present participle

The present participle is used mainly as an adjective or a noun.

Un dipinto affascinante. A fascinating painting.

Un artista interessante. An interesting artist.

Una mostra deludente. A disappointing exhibition.

Here, the present participles affascinante, interessante, deludente are all used as adjectives.

A few examples of present participles functioning as nouns:

Quella cantante ha una voce angelica.

That singer has an angelic voice.

L'insegnante ha molta esperienza.

The teacher has a lot of experience.

Gli studenti di disegno hanno ottenuto buoni risultati. The drawing students have achieved good results.

Cantante, insegnante, studenti are all present participles used as nouns.

The present participle is formed by the root of the verb and the ending -ante or -ente. Some verbs belonging to the third conjugation use the suffix -iente.

CANTARE → CANT → CANTANTE

SORRIDERE → SORRID → SORRIDENTE

DORMIRE → DORM → DORMIENTE

6.7 Participio

The past participle can be used as adjective or noun; in its verbal function it is used to form compound tenses, to form the passive voice and in dependent clauses.

È vestito di bianco dalla testa ai piedi.

He is dressed in white from head to toe.

Il pacco arrivato ieri è mio.

The parcel that arrived yesterday is mine.

In the examples above, the past participle is used as an adjective.

Preparati i colori, l'artista fissò la tela bianca.

Having prepared the colours, the artist stared at the white canvas.

The past participle is used here in a dependent clause, showing a sequence of actions.

Preoccupato dai rumori che venivano dalla strada, il pittore andò verso la finestra.

Worried by the noises coming from the street, the painter went towards the window.

The past participle preoccupato in this sentence provides the reason for an action.

The past participle

The past participle is formed by the root of the verb and the ending -ato, -uto or -ito.

CANTARE → CANT → CANTATO

SEDERE → SED → SEDUTO

DORMIRE → DORMI → DORMITO

Watch out: a good number of past participles are irregular.

> See page 30 for a list.

The present participle is always contemporaneous with the action expressed by the main verb:

Voglio un piano rispondente agli obiettivi comuni.
I want a plan that meets common objectives.

The past participle denotes an action completed before the action expressed by the main verb:

Laura, svegliata dal rumore, accese la luce.
Laura, awakened by the noise, switched on the light.

Conclusion

Italian grammar can be monumental, but don't worry if you can't memorise every little rule! As adult learners we tend to remember things more easily if we know the why's and how's, and clear-cut rules make us feel more confident, but at the end of the day we will only make them our own by actively using them.
